Pre- announcement EFLE Rotterdam 2018

The European Forum of Logistics Education (EFLE) is an international platform where Educators of Bachelor programs in Logistics Management and Logistics Engineering work together. It was founded in 1993 and currently 31 Universities from 13 countries are participating.

EFLE 2018 will be hosted by Rotterdam University of Applied Sciences (RUAS) and will be held in Rotterdam from 9 until 12 October 2018. The overall topic will be “Innovations in Ports”. Several speakers from the port authority and innovative companies have already confirmed their contribution and there will also be excursions to the Port.

Research (sharing logistics)

As innovation is the keyword of EFLE 2018 we would especially like to welcome colleagues involved in research.

During EFLE 2018 a poster session is organized where current status and outcomes of RUAS researches (i.e. in health care logistics, last mile distribution, construction logistics, synchromodality etc) are presented in an informal and interactive way.

We also would like to welcome contributions from other participants of EFLE for the poster session. Even if you are not directly involved in research we ask you to consider to give an overview of the research activities related to logistics.

One of the aims of this poster session is to see whether collaborations on research are possible. We also would like to put the contributions in a leaflet which will be shared during the conference.

Instructions for contributions

Please submit an abstract of your presentation (max. 100 words, 1-3 pictures) to Remco de Vries (r.e.de.vries@hr.nl) by June 15th. Notification of acceptance and further details for the layout of your poster will be sent by July 15th.
